The speaker says: "The trip to get there hadn't been short. A flight from North Carolina to Denver. Then a flight from Denver to Gunnison, Colorado, on a tiny plane." One aircraft the speaker travelled on was therefore small.

1

The speaker says: "A half-hour drive to Crested Butte, Colorado, and then a long drive up a dirt road to meet him." The last part of the speaker's journey therefore took place by car.

2

Billy says: "I had a tent. Right in here. I would sit out here and, and cook food and read and stuff like that." When Billy first camped out there, he therefore passed the time with books.

3

The speaker says: "Why did you pick this spot for your tent?" Billy says: "It's out of the way. You couldn't see it. You know, it was a nice spot." Billy therefore selected the place where he first set up camp because it was well hidden.

4

The speaker says: "Did you, when you put your tent up here, think that you would be here 40 years later?" The interviewer therefore asked Billy if his original plan was to stay.

5

The speaker says: "His land is at an elevation of almost 10,000 feet. I was following behind him and was out of breath." Walking with Billy, the speaker therefore got exhausted.

6

Billy says: "Oh, this is ridiculous. I just figured: 'Okay, I'll show you.'" The speaker says: "No, I'm happy. I'm glad I wore the right shoes." Billy says: "Oh yeah, yeah. I mean, if it was snowing you'd..." The speaker says: "Fall." In this landscape, the speaker was therefore thankful for her footwear.

7

The speaker says: "After his first few months on this land, he liked it enough that he decided to stick around. So he moved into an old mining shack." After some time in the wild, Billy therefore found himself a new home.

8

The speaker says: "Oh, it's so little." Billy says: "Oh, tiny. It was eight by 10 feet and I lived in it for eight years, year-round. At the time it was wonderful. At the time it was, I was just glad to be here." According to Billy, living in a very small home for many years was therefore amazing.

9

The speaker says: "He drank water from the stream. The scenery surrounding Billy Barr's shack is so pretty, you almost can't believe that it's real." According to the speaker, the countryside is therefore like a dream.

The interviewer says: "For her work, Doyne has been widely honored from the distinction as CNN's Hero of the Year in 2015 to the Unsung Hero of Compassion, which was presented to her by the Dalai Lama." Maggie therefore got an award in 2015.

1

The interviewer says: "So, before Nepal was in your consciousness, before you became a mother to over 50 children [...]." Maggie therefore looked after approximately 50 young people.

2

The speaker says: "I was one of three girls." Maggie's parents therefore had three kids.

3

The speaker says: "I had a dog named Sophie and a trampoline in my backyard. I played soccer and lacrosse [...]." The sport that Maggie did was therefore soccer or lacrosse.

4

The interviewer says: "You got through high school with this sort of very normal upbringing, as you describe it." The reporter therefore describes Maggie's upbringing as normal.

5

The speaker says: “Everything I talked about, everything I worked for, was all for college. And all of a sudden, the best way to describe it is that I woke up one morning, and was like, ‘Why? Like, how am I going to make these huge investments, of everything, of money I didn’t even have [...].’” The material aspect that Maggie lacked that made her change her future plans was therefore money.

6

The speaker says: “And taking a step aside of all that was the scariest thing at the time, but I took a gap year.” Maggie therefore felt scared about doing something unusual.

7

The speaker says: “[...] thinking that travel and getting outside of suburban New Jersey and seeing something different, or experiencing a different culture, would help me find that question that I was asking.” Maggie therefore hoped to get into contact with a different culture by taking a year out.

The speaker says: “So we spent a lot of time there, but I also traveled a lot as a child and as a teenager.” When Ellie was younger, she therefore went to see a number of different places.

1

The speaker says: “We kept a list of national parks on this one wall in our house and we had stickers that we would put next to each national park as we visited them.” At a special place at Ellie’s home, the family therefore marked places where they had already been.

2

The speaker says: “My goal was always to visit all of the national parks. I haven’t gotten there yet, but I have currently visited 28 national parks and still working on the list.” Even though she has seen many parks, Ellie therefore still wants to reach her big aim.

3

The speaker says: “And my first memory of Yellowstone was travelling with my family and – I think I was about four years old – and my younger brother was with us as well and it was his birthday in September when we were in Yellowstone. And so, to celebrate his birthday, we decided, my parents decided to bake a chocolate cake over the campfire.” On Ellie’s earliest trip to her favorite national park, her family therefore planned to do something special for a small child.

4

The speaker says: "I love campfire cooking, but it can go terribly wrong, and this was an excellent example of that." Ellie is therefore a fan of preparing food outside although she knows it sometimes ends in a disaster.

5

The speaker says: "I think at the end of the day we had a chocolate cake in the fire and drove into the city to eat ice cream at a local restaurant." Ellie's family therefore finally decided to get something sweet.

6

The speaker says: "That trip also stands out in my mind because I remember that my older sister, Jessie, had a goal that she wanted to see a moose on this trip." Another reason why Ellie therefore still thinks about this vacation is that a family member had a special aim for the journey.

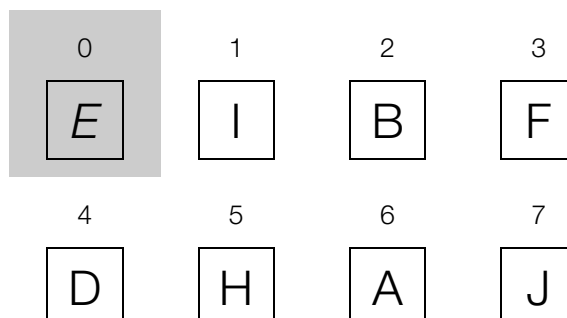

7

The speaker says: "And moose are large animals, of course, but they're not seen very often in, in national parks or at least not where there are visitor paths." It therefore took Ellie's family a long time to find a moose because they seem to avoid places where tourists are.

8

The speaker says: "So she was looking for a moose this whole time and eventually saw one in a river and I remember she was so excited to finally see it." When a family member discovered a moose in the water, she was therefore extremely happy.

4 Internship in Obama's election campaign

The speaker says: "Lou, a middle-aged professor from Chicago, was my fellow intern at the Obama campaign. She had moved from Chicago, Illinois, to my hometown of Grand Rapids, Michigan, for the summer and fall to work for the election of President Barack Obama to his second presidential term, which would begin in 2012." Although Lou worked as a teacher in Chicago, she therefore left her home to take part in the campaign.

1

The speaker says: "At the time, I was in my junior year of high school and I was passionate about politics. At the beginning of the summer, I'd signed up to work as an intern on the Obama Re-Election Campaign and worked thirty-hour weeks the whole summer." After finishing her school year, the speaker therefore started her internship.

2

The speaker says: "Once the school year started up again, I continued to work two or three days a week as well as on the weekends." When her classes began again, the speaker therefore decided to go on working for the campaign.

3

The speaker says: "Through the internship, I learned a lot about organization and how to communicate with people who came from all walks of life. I made phone calls, knocked on doors, and walked around public places like parks and sidewalks asking people to register to vote." While going through the city, the speaker therefore advised people to take part in the election.

4

The speaker says: "When it was announced in November that Obama had won re-election, my friends, fellow volunteers, and I were ecstatic. All that hard work had paid off. On top of it all, the central committee of the re-election campaign gave out a select number of tickets to interns to attend the official swearing-in ceremony of the President, which is called the inauguration." After Obama was elected, his team therefore invited some former helpers to celebrate.

5

The speaker says: "Lou, my fellow intern, was lucky enough to receive two of the tickets and she invited me to accompany her to the inauguration event in Chicago." Having been successful, Lou was therefore allowed to bring a guest to an official ceremony.

6

The speaker says: "As she is from Chicago, she let me stay at her house with her." As Lou lived in Chicago, she therefore invited the speaker to sleep at her place.

7

The speaker says: "Even though we had to stand up for nine hours straight to see Obama speak, we had a great time. We traded stories about our experiences over the summer and took in the enthusiastic atmosphere of the crowded room." While waiting, the two women therefore shared memories.
